MARY LYNN RAJSKUB

(Chloe O'Brian on 24: LIVE ANOTHER DAY)

Mary Lynn Rajskub, who clocked the second-most episodes of any actor appearing in "24's" eight-season run, is a versatile and dynamic writer/performer.

Rajskub recently starred in the indie comedy feature "All-Stars," as well as in the film festival-favorites "The Kings of Summer" and "Safety Not Guaranteed." She also appeared in "Julie & Julia," with Meryl Streep and Amy Adams; "Sunshine Cleaning," opposite Amy Adams and Emily Blunt; the independent comedy "American Fork"; and "Little Miss Sunshine."

On television, she had guest-starring roles on NEW GIRL and "Arrested Development," and will return this season to "It's Always Sunny In Philadelphia" as the iconic "Gail The Snail." She also will be seen this season on "Californication."

Earlier in her career, she appeared in "Firewall," "Legally Blonde II: Red, White & Blonde," "Sweet Home Alabama," "Punch-Drunk Love," "Mysterious Skin," "Dude, Where's My Car?," "Storytelling," "Road Trip" and "Helter Skelter."

After arriving in Los Angeles, Rajskub was cast on David Cross and Bob Odenkirk's critically acclaimed sketch comedy series, "Mr. Show with Bob and David." She then appeared on "The Larry Sanders Show," "The Army Show" and "The Downer Channel." Her episodic work includes "King of Queens," "NewsRadio," "Veronica's Closet" and "Good Morning, Miami."

Rajskub went to art school originally for painting, but quickly discovered her interest in the performing arts. After the success of her first one-woman show, she began honing her skills as a comedian and dramatic actress.

Rajskub, from Trenton, MI, currently resides in Los Angeles with her husband and son.
