KERRY CODDETT

Kerry Coddet [Cah-dit] is a New York- based comedian, actress, and writer. Born and raised in Brooklyn to Caribbean parents, Kerry draws comedic inspiration from her colorful surroundings and offers a uniquely unapologetic perspective that is both irreverent and insightful. A stand up comedian with a modern storytelling style, Kerry is edgy and energetic, while still finding hilarious ways to skewer the status quo. The comedy news site The Interrobang recently published an in-depth profile of Kerry called "Kerry Coddet Brooklyn Comedian and Rising Star." They tout Kerry as ".... a natural performer....[with] a stage presence so engaging, it's infectious...You just know she is going to be a star...."

This year, Kerry was crowned the winner of the Caroline's on Broadway Comedy Madness Competition. Beating out 63 comedians, she was also the first woman to win! She can be seen as a cast member on MTV's "Joking Off," where The Interrobang touted her as a comedic force with "a gigantic stage presence who belongs on television." She's also appeared on Tru TV's new series "Comedy Knockout" and has been on Comedy Central's "The Nightly Show with Larry Wilmore" and "Why? w/ Hannibal Buress," "Huffington Post Live," and "Essence Live." She has been a guest co-host on "The Young Turks." She has also appeared on the "Bennington Show" (Sirius XM) and co-hosted "Wake Up! w/ Taylor" (Sirius XM) multiple times.

Kerry has written viral articles for The Huffington Post and The Atlantic, and has also been featured in numerous publications, including Entertainment Weekly, Mashable, Elle.com, Buzzfeed, and Salon, among others. Kerry has performed stand up at the New York Comedy Festival, The Brooklyn Comedy Festival and the Eugene Mirman Comedy Festival and she's also the host of Brooklyn, Stand Up!!, a monthly stand up comedy show that has been listed in The Village Voice and the New York Times. She has also written and starred in her own sketch comedy web series, "The Codett Project."

Kerry attended CUNY Baruch College and graduated cum laude with a B.A. in English and Psychology, at the age of 19. Old enough to make decisions without her parents' permission and young enough to believe that a career in performing arts was possible, Kerry forwent a traditional job utilizing her degree and sought to become a comedic actress. She went on to receive training at the Esper Studio, the Stella Adler Studio, and HB Studio. She was able to further refine her comedic chops when she studied at the People's Improv Theater and the Upright Citizen's Brigade (UCB), where she was named a UCB Diversity Scholar, and performed with an all female, all women of color improv team, called Affirmative Action.

When Kerry is not on stage telling jokes, she is finding ways to make real life as exciting. This usually involves starting conversations with strangers. In some places, that's considered illegal. Kerry thinks not having a sense of humor should be illegal, too. Thank goodness Kerry is a comedian. She is not running for president.
